BEIJING NORMAL UNIVERSITY

Beijing Normal University (BNU) is a public comprehensive university that is renowned for education science, basic sciences and humanities. Its roots go back to 1902 when it was established as the Normal School of Peking University. According to QS World University Rankings, BNU is ranked top 10 among Chinese mainland universities. In 2017, it was included in Category-A list of the country's initiative to build world-class universities, and 11 disciplines have been selected for China's "Double-First Class" Initiative. BNU is vigorously building a system for high-caliber research and a "one body-two wings" pattern where the Beijing Campus and Zhuhai Campus complement and reinforce each other with different areas of focus.
